A PREFATORY WORD

Benefiting by suggestions received, this second issue of the YEAR BOOK has been improved for purposes of reference by an index, by changes in type, by a better classification, and by the addition of new tables of statistics of Sunday-schools, of the distribution of communicants of many denominations by states, and of the chief Protestant bodies of the world. Other denominations would have been included in the distribution by states, but they were unable to make the compilation. It is hoped that they may provide for this hereafter.

The general tables of statistics include, as heretofore, those organizations recognized as religious bodies by the United States Census Bureau. No attempt has been made to classify the denominations as evangelical, orthodox, non-evangelical, etc. With the statistical information given for all, any one can make for himself such lists as his judgment may determine. Those who want to ascertain the strength of the evangelical churches may begin with the constituent bodies of the Federal Council, for which a separate table is given at the end of the Directory of the Constituent Bodies, and add such other denominations thereto as, in his opinion, belong properly to the evangelical group.

Hundreds of denominational statisticians and other correspondents have freely furnished information, and the editor hereby makes grateful acknowledgment of their favors.

H. K. CARROLL, Editor.

FEDERAL COUNCIL YEAR BOOK

HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Federal Council held its first meeting at Philadelphia in 1908 and was largely the culmination of previous voluntary federative movements, the chief of which had been the Evangelical Alliance and the National Federation of Churches and Christian Workers. The important preliminary work leading up to the organization was accomplished by the Interchurch Conference on Federation held in Carnegie Hall, New York City, in 1905, a body composed of official delegates from thirty denominations convened through the initiative of the National Federation of Churches and Christian Workers. This conference adopted the Constitution of the Federal Council and transmitted it to the various denominations with the understanding that approval by two thirds of them would give it full effect. This approval was secured early in 1908.

THE FEDERAL COUNCIL—AN ORGANIZED BODY

The difference between the Federal Council and the previous movements is that it is not an individual or voluntary agency, or simply an interdenominational fellowship, but is an officially and ecclesiastically constituted body.

It is differentiated from other general movements for the manifestation of Christian unity in the fact that it is the cooperation of the various denominations for service rather than an attempt to unite them upon definitions of theology and polity.

It does not interfere with the autonomy of these bodies and its Constitution specifically states that "The Federal Council shall have no authority over the constituent bodies adhering to it; but its province shall be limited to the expression of its counsel and the recommending of a course of action in matters of common interest to the churches, local councils, and individual Christians. It has no authority to draw up a common creed or form of government or of worship, or in any way to limit the full autonomy of the Christian bodies adhering to it."

The basis and limitations of its constituency are indicated by the preamble to the Constitution, which reads as follows: "In the providence of God, the time has come when it seems fitting more fully to manifest the essential oneness of the Christian churches of America, in Jesus Christ as their Divine Lord and Savior, and to promote the spirit of fellowship, service, and cooperation among them."

ORGANIZATION

The Federal Council meets quadrennially and consists of about four hundred qualified members officially elected by the various denominational assemblies or other constituted authorities.

Its Executive Committee consists of about ninety of these delegates and acts for the Council during the quadrennium between its sessions, holding regular annual meetings.

The Executive Committee has an Administrative Committee, holding regular monthly meetings which acts for the Executive Committee between its sessions.

The national office and its executives, under the Administrative Committee, carry on the continuous work of the Council.

THE NATURE OF ITS WORK

The united work undertaken by the Council is indicated by the titles of its commissions and committees. Among these are the Commissions on Evangelism, Social Service, Christian Education, Temperance, International Justice and Good-will (formerly Peace and Arbitration), Church and Country Life, Interchurch Federations (State and Local), and Relations with the Orient (formerly Relations with Japan); and Committees on Foreign Missions, on Home Missions, on Family Life and Religious Rest Day, and on Ministerial Relief and Sustentation.

The Home Missions Council is a cooperating body of the Federal Council. The Commission on Temperance is in alliance with the National Temperance Society. The Commission on International Justice and Good-will cooperates with the World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship through the Churches.

The Commission on the Church and Social Service was the first to be effectively organized, as its work seemed to offer a larger immediate field for common action. The Commissions on International Justice and Good-will, on Evangelism, on the Church and Country Life, and on Interchurch Federations also have offices and executive secretaries.

Other special commissions or committees are appointed from time to time to take up special activities calling for action upon the part of the churches.

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE COUNCIL

One of the important results of the work during the first quadrennium was the development of a more intimate acquaintance and a better understanding between the great bodies in the Council through working together and through the larger view which each has gained of the other's work by means of this mutual relation. This bond of fellowship has constantly and rapidly become stronger. One of the chief tasks of the Council is that of educating the churches in the interest of united action.

Its general functions require careful development, owing to the wide variety in ecclesiastical polity among its various constituent bodies. It is generally conceded, however, that it should represent and declare the common conscience of the Christian churches upon important questions with regard to which the common consciousness of Christianity is practically unanimous. This is best illustrated by its declarations on the problems of the social order and concerning the moral life of the nation. For example, upon such questions as international peace no concerted action can be taken except by such a comprehensive representative body as the Council.

One of its important functions is the constant creation on the part of the churches of a state of mind which has deepened their sense of fellowship. This it accomplishes by bringing together upon every possible occasion its widely varying elements for consultation and common action. This is illustrated by such a movement as the coordination of the religious forces of the nation for work together during the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

The national office of the Council is creating a large body of literature calculated to increase and deepen the sense of fellowship and develop united action upon the part of the churches and to set forth their common obligations.

STATE AND LOCAL FEDERATIONS

While the Federal Council is constituted solely of the national denominations, it has a cooperative relationship with state and local federations.

The weakness or effectiveness of local federations is determined for the most part by local situations and is largely dependent upon the community sense of unity and fraternity.

The Commission on Interchurch Federations (State and Local) by correspondence, literature, and secretarial visitation, is continuously engaged in propagating this work.

The various denominations are called upon for a small apportionment which, however, even if fully met, would cover less than half the expenses of the national office.

The Council has instructed the treasurer to seek for the remaining amount from individual subscriptions, and from appropriations in the budgets of individual churches.

Correlation and unification unquestionably mean efficiency and economy. The work which the various denominations are brought to do in common costs very much less than it does when each denomination attempts it independently.

The subscriptions in the main are sought for the national office and the Washington office of the Council itself. The Commission on the Church and Social Service is maintained by a large number of sustaining memberships of small and moderate amounts. The Commission on the Church and Country Life is sustained by special contributions. The Commission on International Justice and Good-will is maintained by a special gift for the purpose, and the Commission on Interchurch Federations is responsible for the maintenance of its particular work.

[It shall be the duty of each delegation to this Conference to present this Plan of Federation to its national body, and ask its consideration and proper action.]

[In case this Plan of Federation is approved by two thirds of the proposed constituent bodies the Executive Committee of the National Federation of Churches and Christian Workers, which has called this Conference, is requested to call the Federal Council to meet at a fitting place in December, 1908.]

HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION OF COMMISSION ON THE CHURCH AND SOCIAL SERVICE

The Federal Council, including thirty evangelical denominations and communions as constituent bodies, operates in the interest of Social Service through the Commission on the Church and Social Service, appointed at the organization of the Council in Philadelphia, 1908. At Philadelphia the previous Committee on the Church and Modern Industry gave utterance to a message which was unanimously adopted by the Council, has become historic, has since been reaffirmed by practically all the leading church assemblies and received with gladness by social leaders and workers in all spheres of service.

The Commission on the Church and Social Service was thoroughly organized, and in the spring of 1911, Rev. Charles S. Macfarland was elected as its Secretary, its offices being in association with those of the Federal Council.

Dr. Tippy, now the Associate Secretary of the Federal Council, also serves as the Secretary of the Commission, in association with the denominational social service secretaries, all of whom are associate secretaries of the Federal Council Commission, forming what is known as the Secretarial Council, and Rev. Charles Stelzle acts as Field Secretary.

The offices of the Commission contain a large Social Service Library, which adds all the latest books, has on file about two hundred social and industrial magazines and papers, and contains the literature pertaining to social work issued by all the movements, both religious and general.

Its most important work is that of correlating and coordinating the various denominational commissions and movements; and it has already gone a long way in bringing the denominational work into unity.

CONFERENCES

Its first interdenominational conference was held at Boston in June, 1911, and consisted of representatives of the evangelical denominations which were definitely organized in the interest of social service. This preliminary conference requested that Secretaries Macfarland, Atkinson, Crouch, Stelzle, and Ward arrange for an interdenominational conference to which all the constituent bodies of the Federal Council should be invited to send delegates. In accordance with this action, at an interdenominational conference held at Chicago, November, 1911, seventeen denominations were represented by delegates elected or appointed by denominational action, and the agreement was that the various denominational committees and departments should cooperate through the Federal Council Commission.

A third conference, with a large attendance representing nearly all the constituent denominations of the Federal Council, was held at Chicago in December, 1912.

SECRETARIAL FORCES

A secretarial council was recommended, to consist of the denominational secretaries of those Commissions having such executives, with the understanding that the secretary of the Federal Council Commission on Social Service should represent in the council all the other denominations which did not have executive secretaries.

The Commission has voted that these secretaries be made associate secretaries of the Federal Council Commission, subject to the acceptance of the arrangement by the denominational organizations. These associate secretaries are as follows: Rev. Henry A. Atkinson, Secretary of the Congregational Commission on Social Service; Rev. Samuel Z. Batten, Secretary of the Baptist Department of Social Service and the Brotherhood; Rev. Frank M. Crouch, Executive Secretary of the Protestant Episcopal Joint Commission; Rev. Harry F. Ward, Secretary of the Methodist Federation for Social Service; J. E. McAfee, of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church; Rev. Charles O. Gill, Secretary of the Federal Council Commission on the Church and Country Life, and Rev. Charles Stelzle. Through this Council the denominational agencies are working together, issuing their literature in common, dividing the work and cooperating at every possible point, both nationally and locally, and each secretary, so far as it does not interfere with his denominational interests, is making his work interdenominational.

GENERAL PLAN OF WORK

The work of the Commission is proceeding in this way, conceiving its function to be mainly that of bringing the denominational forces to work together and stimulating their activities rather than considering itself as an independent body. Its "Plan of Work" has been approved and adopted by the Executive Committee of the Federal Council, the Interdenominational Social Service Conference at Chicago, the various denominational Commissions or Committees, and was also approved by the Federal Council in its sessions at Chicago, December, 1912, and at St. Louis, December, 1916.

The Commission is made up of about 125 of the leading social workers of the nation, who represent distinctively the view-point of the churches, and some of the important items in its current program are as follows:

Close relationship is being established with the theological seminaries, the schools for training social workers, and other institutions of learning, in the particular interest of training men and women for a social service which will have the distinctively spiritual point of view.

The commission has placed itself at the disposal of such appropriate organizations as the National Conference of Charities and Correction, the Southern Sociological Congress, the National Child Labor Committee, the American Public Health Association, the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, the Playground and Recreation Association of America, the Child Welfare Congress, the National Municipal League, and National Purity Congress, the National Civic Federation, the Consumers' League, the American Association for Labor Legislation, the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, the American Social Hygiene Association, the National Prison Committee, the Russell Sage Foundation Department of Surveys and Exhibits, the American Sociological Society, the Academy of Political and Social Science, the various schools of civics, philanthropy, and social work, and other similar organizations, and has sent fraternal visitors to their annual meetings.

Plans are arranged to cooperate with the Industrial and Social Service Departments of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations, and the Industrial Department of the Young Women's Christian Association, and the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and kindred societies, so that the work of these important agencies may be fully available for the use of the churches.

One of its most important movements is its nation-wide campaign for one-day-in-seven for industrial workers, which has been unanimously approved by the constituent bodies and also officially by the American Federation of Labor. Labor Sunday was appointed by the Federal Council at the suggestion of the American Federation of Labor. The secretaries of the Commission are received as fraternal delegates at the annual sessions of the American Federation of Labor and also of the Women's Trade Union League. Rev. Charles Stelzle is directing movements for the conservation of human life and temperance among working men.

The various secretaries of the Council are developing social evangelism and civic revivals, and they are available for the services of church federations and other organizations in local communities for this purpose.

Several important investigations have been made, particularly of the industrial conditions in the steel industry at South Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, and the industrial warfare at Muscatine, Iowa. Secretary Henry A. Atkinson also prepared a report on the industrial situation in Michigan and Colorado, and a committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches prepared for the Commission a report on the situation at Lawrence, Massachusetts, and a committee has been making an inquiry in the anthracite region in Pennsylvania. A committee has also been instructed to report on prison conditions.

The literature of the Commission is assuming large proportions, and includes the reports of these investigations, study courses and bibliographies, social service catechisms, and similar material for the guidance and instruction of pastors and church classes, covering social questions and presenting them from the point of view of the obligation and opportunity of the churches. Arrangements are being made to secure the publication of books jointly with other organizations issuing common publications, especially those issuing home mission, industrial, and social service handbooks, like the Missionary Education Movement, and the Association Press. The secretaries themselves contribute to the literature on social service, new books having recently appeared, by Secretaries Ward, Batten, Macfarland, Gill, Atkinson, and Stelzle.

The churches are also working increasingly together in local communities. Most of the federations of churches are formed with community problems and social uplift as their objectives.

In some cities, social service secretaries have been engaged to give their whole time to the work of the federated churches.

The Commission on the Church and Social Service has the cooperation of other commissions and departments of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, including the Commission on the Church and Country Life, the Commission on Interchurch Federations (State and Local), the Commission on International Justice and Good-will, the Commission on Temperance, and the Commission on Christian Education, which has assisted in preparing social service material for study courses.

The Commission on the Church and Social Service also works in sympathetic relation with the Federal Council Commission on Evangelism, both of these commissions realizing that their work is a common one.

During the Panama-Pacific Exposition an exhibit was maintained by the Commission, and its work was also set forth by daily illustrated lectures in a hall connected with the exhibit under the direction of Mr. G. B. St. John.

Literature describing the work of the churches in association with the Federal Council may be obtained on application to the Rev. Worth M. Tippy, Secretary, 612 United Charities Building, 105 East 22d Street, New York City.

The Year Book of the Church and Social Service gives in full the information here referred to.

COMMISSION ON INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE AND GOOD-WILL

Created to promote peace and international arbitration on a basis of justice and good-will. The Commission cooperates with the American Council of the World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship through the Churches and invites every denomination to establish a Peacemakers' Commission and every congregation to form a Peacemakers' Committee to secure wide study of international problems with the hope of ultimately Christianizing America's international relations, and of helping to bring in a Christian world order.

Secretaries, Rev. Charles S. Macfarland, Rev. Sidney L. Gulick

COMMISSION ON CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

This Commission considers and reports upon matters of moral and religious education. The Commission has adopted a plan for promoting religious instruction among the pupils of the public schools and has had prepared an outline of twelve lessons on international peace for the guidance of denominational committees and editors in the preparation of a course of study for adult Bible classes, young people's societies, missionary and fraternal societies, etc.

COMMISSION ON TEMPERANCE AND NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY

The Commission and the National Temperance Society have been merged.

The aim of the Commission is to cooperate as much as possible with the denominational temperance commissions of the constituent churches and to aid in organizing such commissions where they do not now exist.

The purposes are to compile the information, through a research department, of the results of experience obtained in industrial plants, on railroads, and in the army and navy since the principle of temperance has been applied.

To cooperate with and furnish temperance information and exhibits to the welfare, health, safety, and efficiency departments of municipalities, railroads, industrial plants, and business corporations.

To hold educational and welfare expositions throughout the United States, in cooperation with other temperance organizations and civic agencies, showing the underlying causes of poverty, crime, and domestic unhappiness, and the beneficial economic results secured through temperance.

To secure the active cooperation of the moving picture film companies, theater owners and their trade publications, in presenting temperance information through special slides and photoplays.

To urge the universal observance of the annual "World's Temperance Sunday."

To emphasize the importance of temperance as an economic issue in connection with civic celebrations on the Fourth of July, and

To stress voluntary personal abstinence—a practical solution of the problem.

In December, 1915, the Commission held a Conference on the Church and Country Life at Columbus, Ohio, the attendance at which 600 delegates from 31 states were registered. LOCAL FEDERATIONS OF CHURCHES

The most noteworthy progress toward Christian unity in the last five years has come through the cooperation of the Churches in efforts to correct community conditions which militate against the influence of the churches. During this period the Commission of the Federal Council on State and Local Federations has been cultivating this spirit of fellowship. The literature prepared by the secretary, Professor Alfred Williams Anthony, has not only helped to create public opinion, but to indicate lines of cooperation.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement gave a great impetus to this work. In several cities the conservation of the messages and methods of this movement resulted in the forming of permanent interchurch organizations. In each case there has been a gradual evolution of these organizations. Through varied experiences they have come to be very similar. There was formed a year ago an association of the executive secretaries of these bodies. Each was a pioneer, each was working without precedents, yet when these men came together for the first time, there was remarkable agreement between them as to principles, scope of work, and methods.

Two years ago the Commission on Federated Movements was formed with Mr. Fred B. Smith Chairman, Rev. Roy B. Guild, Executive Secretary, and Mr. James A. Whitmore, Field Secretary. This Commission has made a careful study of the status of interchurch work, has brought into closest fellowship many interdenominational and non-denominational organizations. Recently it has been engaged in more aggressive work in forming state and local federations.

At the last meeting of the Federal Council the two Commissions named above were merged into the "Commission on Interchurch Federation (State and Local)." Mr. Fred B. Smith is the Chairman of this newly formed Commission, Rev. Roy B. Guild is the Executive Secretary. The offices of the Commission are at 105 East 22d Street.

For the sake of those who wish to secure information about existing federations, the following list is given of those states and cities which have employed executive secretaries.

Besides the above named federations, this Commission by a recent questionnaire learned that there are at least sixty-one other Interchurch Federations or councils including laymen in their membership. One hundred and seventy cities have ministerial alliances or unions. This questionnaire has made clear that continuity of effort in the church's work for the entire community depends upon bringing the laymen into such an organization. "Ministers come and ministers go, but the laymen stay on forever." A Ministers' Union can render no larger service to a community than to develop interchurch organizations, including laymen and ministers. In larger cities no measurable degree of success can be expected except by securing an executive secretary for all or part time.

The literature for forming such organizations and working out a program is now available. The Commission when possible will contribute the service of its secretary.

The American National Council held its first Conference at Garden City, N. Y., April 25, 1916. It is composed of 260 of the leading Christian citizens of the United States who come from forty-one different communions, whose combined church membership exceeds 23,000,000. The American Council in dealing with the constituent bodies of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, works in co-operation with its Commission on International Justice and Good-will. This world movement is entirely free from questions concerning church organization and doctrine. All Christians may and should unite in establishing a Christian world order.

The American Council and the Commission on International Justice and Good-will of the Federal Council of Churches invite every local congregation to establish its own Peacemakers' Committee to cooperate with them in Christianizing America's international relations and in helping them to establish a Christian world order.

The Purpose and Work of the Peacemakers' Committee is to connect the local congregation with the world movement of the churches and to promote study in the local community of the principles of Christian internationalism, to develop the intelligent convictions of church-members in regard to their international responsibilities and duties, and to render possible the collective action of Christian citizens in making America's international relations Christian.

Every Communion in the United States is invited to establish a Peacemakers' Commission while State and City Federations of Churches are also invited to establish suitable committees which may be called Peacemakers' Federations and Leagues. The special work of these general committees is to further the establishment of Peacemakers' Committees by their local congregations and to promote a nation-wide campaign of education in Christian internationalism.

A Manual of Suggestions for Peacemakers' Committees describes in detail the available literature and the methods of work which such committees may undertake.

Every Peacemakers' Committee should enroll promptly at the national office, 105 East 22d St., New York City, in order to render its best service both locally and nationally.

FOREIGN MISSIONS STATISTICS OF NORTH AMERICA, 1916

PREPARED BY THE SPECIAL SUBCOMMITTEE ON STATISTICS OF THE COMMITTEE OF REFERENCE AND COUNSEL OF THE FOREIGN MISSIONS CONFERENCE

The following tables include an abbreviated statistical statement of the income, staff, and mission work, so far as these are known, of all Protestant organizations of Canada and the United States directing or aiding the missionary enterprise in Alaska, Hawaii, Latin America, Europe, and the non-Christian world, excepting those "Home Mission" Boards working in one or more of these fields. A total of the expenditure of the latter organizations in these areas will be found in the table of summation.

In addition to those listed, mention is made of certain societies whose purpose is such that attention should be called to them:

The Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America, as an organization, is not responsible for the conduct of foreign mission work. Like the Foreign Missions Conference, it is a consulting body only. It has no income other than dues for running expenses from its constituency.

The China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation, while not a direct missionary agency, has entered the field of cooperation with mission boards at work in China, that medical missions may be strengthened and materially helped. It is in process of establishing at Peking and Shanghai medical schools of the first rank, besides lending its assistance to existing institutions in other parts of China.

The World's Student Christian Federation is not technically a missionary society. Its work in mission lands is missionary in character, serving the students of all institutions, whether denominational or otherwise.

The Mandingo Association is a recently formed organization to develop a distinctive Christian African civilization, adapted to the needs of the people. It is to be promoted in the country itself and through the people themselves, and all permeated by the teachings of Jesus Christ.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement, working in the interest of both home and foreign missions, is one of the very effective "home base" organizations.

Three additional educational institutions, with American boards of trustees, should regularly be reported: Iconium College, which has had its work interrupted by the war; Peking University, which is being reorganized as the union institution for higher education in North China; and Cairo University, which has not yet begun its work.

Formerly these statistics were prepared by the "Home Base Committee," under the direction of the Rev. Fred P. Haggard, D.D., whose faithful work made the presentation possible. A few slight changes in the typographical form have been made, but no essential change in the plan of gathering or presenting the information has been adopted. Owing to the departure of Dr. Haggard for Russia, it was necessary that the work be placed in new hands at a late date. Charity with respect to minor errors will therefore not be amiss. The unavoidable delay in doing the preliminary work also explains the failure of many organizations to send returns for use in these tables.

The committee is especially grateful for the ready cooperation on the part of those societies and organizations which are not affiliated with the Foreign Missions Conference. The response from these has been as general and as cordial as it has been from those directly related to the Conference.

FOREIGN MISSIONS STATISTICS OF NORTH AMERICA

SUMMARY

NOTE:—This table includes data for those areas only which are included in this survey. Incomes for the "Home Mission" Societies amounting to $576,931 were reported through the Home Missions Council. Allowance has been made for duplication of entries.

Certain organizations are here recorded which raise money for missions and which have their own identity in home base activities, but whose incomes at home and whose work abroad are reported fully by other organizations. The totals under each heading in the detailed tables are the totals for the 146 Societies in column 1 of this table. The 49 Societies here indicated in column 2 represent those organizations whose names in each case are indented in the list of Societies which are further indicated by the double asterisk () foot notes.

CHURCH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL STATISTICS

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES OF THE UNITED STATES FOR 1916

Gathered and Arranged by

H. K. CARROLL, LL.D.

These statistics cover the territory of the United States and its possessions exclusively. Ministers, churches, and communicants of various denominations in foreign countries are deducted from the denominational totals.

Where official denominational returns are to be had, they are used. Where such returns are not available, the best denominational sources of information are sought for approximate figures. In some cases the census returns of 1906 are the latest and only ones available. It is chiefly the very small bodies which report no statistics.

Estimates, generally by denominational statisticians, are given in a few cases for the increase of the year, where denominational reports are not ready.

The order of arrangement follows the alphabet, and classification is according to name or to historical relation. The non-Christian bodies are few and easily separable from the Christian. A great body of evangelical churches, embracing nearly eighteen million communicants, is found in the Table of the constituent bodies of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. There are, of course, evangelical bodies not included in the Council, for example, the Southern Baptist Convention.

It is necessary to give again a word of explanation concerning the figures for the Roman Catholic Church in the column of communicants. The "Official Catholic Directory" reports only "population," which includes with communicants the unconfirmed baptized; that is, children who have not been admitted to their first communion. The rule adopted in the census of 1890, and followed in that of 1906, deducts 15 per cent from Catholic population and sets down the remaining 85 per cent as communicants. Representatives of that church object to the process, but as the rule to report only members or communicants is applied to all other denominations, there is obviously no convenient way of making an exception in this case. It should be said that the figures for "population" in "The Official Catholic Directory" are, for a large number of dioceses and archdioceses, estimates, given in round numbers; as, for example, Baltimore, 261,000; Boston, 900,000; Cincinnati, 200,000.

The figures for Jewish members are misleading. The denomination furnishes no statistics, and nothing later than the figures gathered directly by circular from congregations by the Government in its census of 1906 is obtainable. The census gives an even smaller number of members than this table, counting only heads of families, according to the Jewish rule. The number of adults connected with Jewish congregations must be 700,000 or more.

The Christian Catholic Church (Dowie) has for years refused to give statistical information. So also have the Catholic Apostolic branches. The Church of Christ, Scientist, has furnished no returns for members since 1907.

Changes in the totals for 1915 have been made. In not a few cases the statistics officially given for that year proved to be incorrect and were revised a year later by the denominational authorities. In other instances, estimates given in advance of regular returns needed to be slightly increased or decreased. For 1915 the Disciples of Christ were represented by the figures given for the previous year, those for 1915 having been delayed by the process of revision. When the returns for 1915 appeared they showed an apparent decrease of about 229,000 members which, the denominational statistician explained, was "due to the substitution of actual data for random guesses." The number given for 1916 indicates a gain over the revised figures for 1915 of about 44,000. There is an apparent heavy loss of churches of that denomination this year due, we are told, to the same cause. Fortunately, such immense changes are rare, most of the revisions being of minor importance.

THE GAINS OF THE CHURCHES IN 1916

The churches of the United States have not suffered serious financial losses from the European war and the increased cost of living the past year; as to church-membership there has been an encouraging increase over the year 1915. The churches have given freely toward the millions of money sent to the war-afflicted populations of Europe and Asia, and yet maintained their own regular work, evangelistic, missionary, benevolent, and educational, with undiminished force. It appears from the full statistical tables which follow that the religious bodies, Catholic, Protestant, Eastern Orthodox, and non-Christian, had in 1916 an aggregate of over 40,000,000 communicants or members, crossing the forty million mark by about 17,000. The net increase of the year was 747,000, or 204,000 more than the increase for 1915. In 1890 the total religious strength was 20,618,000, so that in twenty-six years following the net increase has been 19,398,000 or 94 per cent., while the gain in the population of the country for the same period has been about 39,000,000 or 61 per cent. The churches therefore gained faster than the population during this period. Of the gains in 1916 about 216,000 were of the Roman Catholic Church, and some 500,000 of the Protestant bodies. Among the latter, 136,000 are credited to the Methodist, 132,000 to the Baptist, and upward of 79,000 to the Presbyterian and Reformed group. The Disciples of Christ had a gain of 44,000 on the basis of their revised returns for 1915, the Episcopal Church of 27,000, and the Lutheran bodies of 20,000.

It quite clearly appears that what are known as evangelical churches are still enjoying a healthy growth, although their percentage of gains may on the average be slightly declining. The group of thirty churches constituting the Federal Council report a net increase of 254,000 members over last year, though four of the bodies, aggregating more than 1,600,000 communicants, do not count at all in the gains for 1916, not having reported any later figures than for 1913 or 1914 except in one case. The totals of the group are 17,996,435 members, 139,083 churches, and 103,622 ministers.

The gain in 1916 in number of churches of all denominations was small, only 117. In the previous year, however, there was a net loss. The smallness of the increase this year is due to decreases reported by several denominations and denominational groups. The Disciples of Christ sustain an apparent loss of 769 churches caused by faulty method of counting in previous years; the Methodist Episcopal Church loses 68, the Northern Baptist 33, the Northern Presbyterian 97, the Episcopal 7. These and other losses reduce the considerable gains of the Roman Catholics, 199, the United Brethren, 70, the Lutheran Synodical Conference, 105, etc. It is quite evident that rural churches in particular are being closed or merged for the sake of economy and efficiency.

The gain in ministers is 2,643, which is nearly double that of 1915. The largest gain, 478, is reported by the Roman Catholic Church; the Baptists added 365, the Lutherans 159, and other bodies smaller numbers.

DISTRIBUTION OF CHURCH-MEMBERS BY STATES

FOR DENOMINATIONS EMBRACING FOUR FIFTHS OF THE TOTAL MEMBERSHIP IN THE UNITED STATES

This table includes all those denominations which were able to furnish statistics of their members by states, and it represents only Continental United States, excluding Alaska, Hawaii, and the colonial possessions.

Not many of the churches observe state lines in reporting their statistics. The Baptists, the Congregationalists, and the Disciples of Christ do, but they are exceptions to the rule.

Presbyteries, conferences, classes, synods, etc., often cross state lines, and, indeed, include parts of several states.

The New York classis, of the Reformed Church in America, for example, not only has churches, ministers, and members in New York City, but also in Maine, Kentucky, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

The Synod of Appalachia of the Southern Presbyterian Church, has churches in the states of Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee.

Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church lap and overlap one another in a quite bewildering way. For example, the Delaware Conference, (colored) covers territory embraced in a dozen white conferences, having churches not only in Delaware, but also in Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York. Then the East German and East Swedish Conferences occupy also part of the same territory.

The dioceses of the Protestant Episcopal Church generally do not cross state lines, but there are some notable exceptions.

The dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church, in a number of cases, ignore state lines.

The compilations, with half a dozen exceptions, were made or revised by denominational statisticians. Those for the Lutherans, made by Dr. Kopenhaver, include the various bodies of that name, but are incomplete. For most of the denominations the figures, where not strictly accurate, are at least approximate.

All the denominations represented, with one exception—the Roman Catholic—belong to the Evangelical list. Three large colored Methodist bodies, having, perhaps, a million and a half of members, furnish no statistics of any kind; the Evangelical Association and the United Evangelical Church, the Mennonites, the Christian Church and other bodies give no indication of state lines in their reports.

The total of members or communicants of the bodies represented in the table is 33,299,142, which is more than four fifths of the grand total of all religious bodies in the United States, Christian and Non-Christian. Any comparison that may be attempted with the population of the states must take this fact into account.

Considering Protestants only, the states show preferences as follows:

Alabama, two thirds Baptist.

Arkansas, more than half Baptist.

Delaware, nearly half Methodist.

Georgia, Baptist largely.

Indiana, Methodist largely.

Iowa, Methodist largely.

Kansas, a Methodist state.

Kentucky, a Baptist state.

Maine, Baptist, first; Methodist, second; and Congregationalist, third.

Maryland, a Methodist state.

Massachusetts, a Congregationalist state.

Michigan, a Methodist state.

Minnesota, Lutheran.

Mississippi, Baptist.

Missouri, Baptist.

Nebraska, Methodists lead.

New Hampshire, Congregationalists lead.

New Jersey, Methodists lead, 121,832.

New York, more Methodists, 376,285.

North Carolina, more Baptists, 420,428.

North Dakota, more Lutherans.

Ohio, Methodists predominate, 393,000.

Oklahoma: Methodists, 99,846; Baptists, 99,340; there are other Baptist bodies, but there are also other Methodist bodies to be heard from.

Pennsylvania: first, Presbyterians, 398,034; second, Lutherans, 388,157; third, Methodists, 376,223.

Rhode Island is an Episcopal state; with Baptists a close second.

South Carolina is a Baptist state.

South Dakota is a Lutheran state.

Tennessee, the Baptists are first.

Texas: the Baptists are first, 500,698; the Methodists second, 357,812; the Roman Catholics third, 346,962.

Utah is Mormon.

Vermont, the Congregationalists lead.

Virginia, Baptists first, Methodists second.

Washington is strongly Methodist.

West Virginia is strongly Methodist.

Wisconsin is strongly Lutheran.

As to the Roman Catholic Church, it is first in all New England, in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Arizona, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

The states indicating a high proportion of communicants to population are Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Louisiana, with one communicant to every two and a fraction of the population.

These states have one communicant in every 3, or a little less of the population: Alabama, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia, and Wisconsin.

Arkansas, California, Florida, Maine, Nebraska, North Dakota, Tennessee, and West Virginia have one in four or a little less.

Arizona and Colorado have one in five or a little less; Washington one in six; Oklahoma one in seven; and Nevada one in eleven. Doubtless returns of the Mormons would reduce this number.

The average of the total of communicants, 33,299,142, given in this table to the total population, 102,017,312, is as one to three plus.

STATISTICS OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The larger and many of the smaller denominations make returns for Sunday-schools in their annual statistics; but a considerable number, including the Roman Catholic and the Eastern Orthodox bodies, do not. The United States Census of Religious Bodies of 1906 gathered information under this head from these and other denominations; in fact from all that have Sunday-schools. Quite a number of churches, such as the Primitive Baptists, the Old Order Brethren, and other small bodies, have no Sunday-schools.

Most of the returns given in the accompanying tables are for the year 1916, some are for 1915, others are for 1914 and the rest go back to the census of 1906. Those for 1914 are taken from the full statistical tables in the Encyclopaedia of Sunday Schools.

The statistics for what are known as the evangelical churches are probably quite accurate, though those given for the African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion, and Colored Methodist Episcopal Churches are not very recent. These bodies have reported no figures of any kind for two or three years. The grand totals may be reasonably regarded as approximate, not exact, but rather under than over the real figures.

The gains in the ten years since the United States Census of Sunday-schools in 1906 are very large, reaching far beyond six million scholars, or a percentage of 40—. The net increase in membership of all the churches in the same period has been 4,756,433 or a percentage of 13+. That there has been an actual net increase of 6,116,622 scholars in the Sunday-schools does not seem easy to explain, without impeaching the fulness of the returns of 1906 or the accuracy of those of 1916; but the distribution of gains among denominational groups and denominations appears to confirm it.

The larger increases in the item of scholars are as follows:

	GAIN IN TEN YEARS	TOTAL IN 1916
	Scholars	Scholars
Baptist group.....	486,923	3,385,837
Congregational.....	51,404	689,493
Disciple group.....	306,236	940,767
Brethren (Dunkards).....	65,630	144,205

United Brethren group.....	127,481	428,801
Roman Catholic.....	1,368,465	2,850,000

The Roman Catholic gain is over 89 per cent.; the Disciple, 50—; the United Brethren 42+; the Methodist 61+; the Lutheran 30—; the Reformed 29+; the Presbyterian 27+.

The Methodist Episcopal Church shows an increase of 1,543,799, or 57+ per cent.; the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 707,720, or 68+ per cent.

The increase in the number of schools, 15,500, is at the rate of 1,550 a year; and the increase of officers and teachers, 307,271, is at the rate of more than 30,000 a year.

FEDERATION IN ENGLAND AND WALES

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF THE EVANGELICAL FREE CHURCHES

Constituted by the Congregational, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Free Episcopal Churches and Society of Friends in England and Wales.

Purpose: a. To facilitate fraternal intercourse and cooperation among the Evangelical Free Churches; b. To assist in the organization of local Councils; c. To encourage devotional fellowship and mutual counsel concerning the spiritual life and religious activities of the Churches; d. To advocate the New Testament doctrine of the Church, and to defend the rights of the associated Churches; e. To promote the application of the law of Christ in every relation of human life.

Office: Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, London, E. C., England.

Officers: President, Rev. Alex. McConnell; Secretary, Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Five Methodist bodies, aggregating 976,555 communicants, the Baptists, 392,034 communicants, the Congregationalists, 452,489, the Presbyterians and the Welsh Calvinistic Methodist, 270,495, the Churches of Christ, 14,778, the Disciples of Christ, 1,713, the Friends, 17,466, the Moravians, 3,313, the Free Episcopal, 1,352, the Reformed Episcopal, 1,278 and Lady Huntingdon's Connection, 2,200, are connected with the Federation, representing 2,133,673 communicants and 9,064 ministers, according to returns of 1913.

Plans for a closer federation were under consideration in 1916, under the leadership of the Rev. J. H. Shakespeare, most of the Free Churches participating.

WORLD'S EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE

Office, 19 Russell Square, London, W. C., England. General Secretary, H. M. Gooch.

THE WORLD'S RELIGIONS

The sources of the world statistics which follow are indicated. It should be borne in mind that they are not very recent, but date back to near the beginning of the present century. It is certain that the figures given for Protestant population in North America are much too small. The Protestant population for the United States alone can hardly be much short of 75,000,000, to say nothing of the millions in Canada.

CHIEF DIVISIONS OF PROTESTANTISM

This is simply a first attempt to present statistics of members and adherents of the leading Protestant communions of the world. There are, of course, other bodies which could properly appear in this list. It is very difficult, indeed well-nigh impossible, to secure complete and trustworthy returns, which shall, at the same time, be up to date.

The statement for the Anglican Communion is by no means satisfactory. It is not very late, and it is at best only approximate.

That for the Baptists is taken from the American Baptist Year Book for 1915; and that for the Congregationalists from the Congregational Year Book for the same year. The population in each case is estimated on the basis of two adherents to each communicant.

The presentation for Methodism may be accepted as fairly accurate, and is, for the most part, of latest date.

The Lutheran figures are those of Prof. J. N. Lenker, except for the United States, and are several years old.

The Presbyterian and Reformed statistics are taken from the Presbyterian Year Book for other countries than the United States, and are probably quite conservative. They are in part for 1916 and in part for 1915 and earlier years.

The estimate of population is made on the basis of two adherents for each member in all cases in so far as the United States is concerned, which is probably too low for some denominations but high enough for the general average; it is also applied to Baptist and Congregational communicants in other countries.

Population means the total of communicants or members, and of adherents.

ANGLICAN COMMUNION

The Anglican Communion includes the Church of England in England and Wales, Scotland and Ireland, and the British Colonies, and the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. The figures are not very recent except for the Protestant Episcopal Church, which are for 1916. Population includes communicants and adherents.

This total, which does not include a considerable number of minor Protestant bodies in Europe, and some large as well as many small Protestant bodies in the United States, is, nevertheless, much larger than the highest figure given by any of the statisticians of Europe for Protestantism in the world. Whitaker gives 171,651,000 as the total, and Webb-

Mulhall, 177,300,000. But these estimates are not at all recent; they date back to the beginning or near the beginning of the present century. Whitaker allots to North America only 65,000,000 Protestant population; Webb-Mulhall, 69,000,000. The former estimate is only large enough to cover the Protestant population in the United States alone in 1900, exclusive of Canada. There were in 1900 about 18,500,000 Protestant communicants in the United States, which, at the ratio of two and one half adherents to each communicant, would yield about 65,000,000 population. The number of Protestant members in the United States in 1916 is upward of 25,000,000, which, on the basis of two adherents to each communicant, perhaps a safer ratio, yields a Protestant population of 75,000,000. It would therefore appear that a revision of the estimates for Protestantism in the world must carry it up to 190,000,000 or 195,000,000, unless, indeed, there has been a large decrease of Protestants in Europe and other countries, of which there is no other evidence at hand than the destruction of life by the war.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH IN NORTH AMERICA

The figures generally given for the Roman Catholic Church in North America will also have to be revised and brought down to date. According to Webb-Mulhall there was in the United States at the beginning of the present century 11,000,000 Catholic population, and 26,800,000 in the rest of North America, with 37,400,000 in South America, making a total for America of 75,200,000. At the end of 1915 the Catholic population of the United States, not including our insular possessions, was 16,564,000; including the insular possessions, the estimate of the Catholic Directory calls for 24,922,000. If to this aggregate Canada be added with 3,113,794, Mexico and Central America with Cuba, and other adjacent islands, there will be a total of more than 50,000,000 Catholic population for North America.
